"Don't let them call You SKINNY"

...advises Hollywood's Brightest New Star
JUNE WILKINSON,

Co-starring in "THE CONTINENTAL TWIST"
STARRING LOUIS PRIMA

"Making any movie is hard work but 'THE CONTINENTAL TWIST' was truly exhaustingly strenuous. We started early and worked late . . . ate at all hours or not at all. To help keep from losing weight and to build up my energy and strength, I often used SUPER WATE-ON as a meal time supplement and during breaks I would eat WATE-ON Tablets, too. Both forms of WATE-ON are super-concentrated with weight building calories, vitamins, minerals, quick energy elements and other body building nutrients. Yes, WATE-ON helps maintain the figure without overeating. So, girls, don't be thin and underweight because of poor appetite or poor eating habits. Ask your doctor . . . if he approves, try WATE-ON. Perhaps the boys won't be calling 'Hey, Skinny' at you anymore."

JUNE WEDDING

THE wonderful excitement of a June wedding fills the air, and I can hardly believe that within a few short minutes I will hear the strains of the wedding march. Only a few weeks ago I faced the most difficult decision a girl has to make. I would never have believed then that I could ever look in the mirror again and see my face smiling back at me in a happy radiance. Can this be the same Valerie Scott who ran away from herself in a wild confusion of sorrow?

The breaking point in my successful, orderly life came on a memorable Friday evening with the jangle of a telephone. I had just prepared dinner for myself in the small apartment. The glimmer of stainless steel in my modern, career girl kitchenette had once delighted me. I had worked hard during my year in the big city, and I reveled in every material accessory that I had bought for myself. That was in the very beginning. By now, the novelty of living alone had worn itself against the lonely hours I spent in dreary solitude. I leaped for the telephone and Bob's voice brought a sigh of relief to my lips.

"I had to work late on the payroll," he explained. "I thought I might drop in for a while if I wouldn't be interfering with any plans you had made."

"I'll whip up dinner for us both if you can be along within an hour," I said eagerly.

"You're the rare combination of my favorite girl and cook. You're perfect, and I love you in spite of it."

I warmed to the praise and went about my tasks cheerfully. The tremendous burden of spending my evening alone was lifted like a cloud and I basked in the sunny anticipation of Bob's company.

Charles usually came over on Friday evenings, but he was out of town at a sales conference that week-end. Bob was taking me to the theater on Saturday night, and if Charles got back in time he would drop in late Sunday afternoon. My week-end was complete now, and I realized how much I had come to depend on Bob and Charles. It didn't speak too well for me, of course, that I couldn't bear to have one day on the week-end to myself.

It never used to be like that in my home town when I lived with Aunt Martha. I was always self-reliant, and I made my own way without relying upon dates as heavily as I did now. I was, in fact, amazingly different then, and to Aunt Martha's dismay I usually turned down the home town boys and busied myself with studies that prepared the way to my leaving Mapleton for a career in the Big City.

Aunt Martha worried about my indifference to a busy social life, and once I heard her discussing it with Dr. Baxter, a close friend and confidante.

"Valerie appreciates all that you've done in giving her a home, Martha," the kind doctor had explained, "but she has a drive to break away and make good on her own. You can't stop her. You've devoted your life to the girl, Martha, and perhaps you feel more strongly about letting her go on her own than her own parents would be if they were alive. You must make a life for yourself, Martha dear. Valerie is a woman, not a child any more. She'll come to you whenever she needs you. If you stand in her way just to keep her for yourself she'll resent you and you'll lose her completely."

Aunt Martha was a loving and understanding woman. She was a young widow when I had first come to stay with her. I will never forget the devotion she showed the bewildered six-year-old orphan who came to Mapleton to live after an automobile tragedy took the lives of my own parents. Aunt Martha and I consoled each other. We had both suffered a tremendous personal loss, and together we rebuilt our lives, grateful for each other, and eventually happy in the pleasant Mapleton town.

Perhaps one of the main reasons I was driven towards the city was that I had lived there with my parents. It was a challenge to return there where I thought I had my roots. I think Aunt Martha tried her best to understand that, too.

I met Bob, and then Charles through the personnel agency I came to work for during my first week in town. I liked them immediately, and I didn't try to further by contacts with fellows because I took such pleasure in their company that it didn't seem necessary to look further.

I may be flattering myself, but it wasn't long before I realized that the soft-eyed Miss from Mapleton had charmed these city fellows into romantic devotion. Bob held my hand tenderly as we strolled through the park or sat in the cool darkness of a movie house. Charles' blue eyes twinkled admiration the minute he saw me. I accepted their affections with warm delight until that eventful Friday night when I knew I would have to choose forever between them.

Bob came in the apartment that night and whirled me off my feet by announcing that he had just received a raise in pay and that we would be married as soon as possible.

"How does a June wedding strike that fanciful head of yours?" he asked gaily, kissing me full on the lips with an intenseness that frightened me.

I pulled back, and he looked down at me with hurt anger.

"What's the matter, Valerie? Is there something wrong? I want you to be honest. Is there anyone else?"

Just then the doorbell rang. I opened the door and Charles swept me into his arms with affectionate gaiety.

"Surprise, darling!" he fairly shouted. "I didn't have to leave town after all and . . ."

He stopped short when he saw Bob.

I introduced them falteringly. I had never realized that I might be considered guilty of playing the game of one against the other. I liked them both very much, and I had never really led either one of them to expect something serious . . . Or had I?

Bob and Charles acted like two civilized, decent human being. They were cordial, but restrained as I tried to make light, useless conversation with my head spinning.

Bob excused himself politely.

"I'll call you tomorrow night," he said. "You can let me know your answer then."

"He's asked you to marry him, hasn't he?" Charles guessed as soon as Bob left.

I nodded helplessly.

"Is it too late for me to make my bid, Valerie? You know how I feel, don't you?"

I cried that night in shame and despair. I couldn't face either one of them until I made up my mind. Bob understood when I called to cancel our date. I wasn't feeling well, and I left a message with the call service that I would be in Mapleton. There, I would put my problems on the adequate shoulders of wonderful Aunt Martha.

"I don't understand you, Valerie," said Aunt Martha. "What is your problem?"

I looked at her incredulously.

"Don't you see! I don't know which one to marry!"

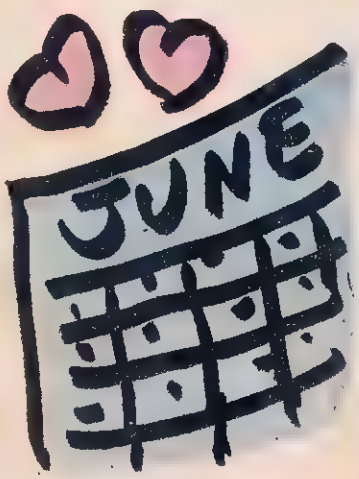
Aunt Martha smiled calmly.

"Yes you do," she contradicted. "Deep in your heart you know very definitely. The man you love is one with whom you will want to spend each day of your life, and the greatest mutual gift you will give to each other is understanding."



I went upstairs to my old room and stretched out upon the bed. The moon came through the window and brought the soft quiet of night and peacefulness. "The greatest mutual gift . . . understanding . . ." The words ran through my mind in a circle of repetition. How well did I understand Charles? Enough perhaps to realize that his chief drive was toward monetary success. His extravagant indulgence on our dates might flatter my ego, but when it came to balancing the budget wouldn't I take a different attitude on the subject? The thought led to a chain of ideas concerning Charles' recklessness. I had always thought of him as impulsive . . . a trait that might add charm to a date night, but was quite something else when thought of in terms of a marriage. When I thought carefully, as now, I realized that Charles' proposal had come in a similar rash moment on the heels of his realization that Bob had popped the question. Charles was like a spoiled little boy reaching out for what someone else wanted, attracted not by his own desire, but by someone else's.

Bob was so different, so dependable . . . so wonderful! We shared many pleasures and interests. He was ambitious, but level headed with a sound, handsome head on those strong shoulders. Suddenly, I wished I could lean against him and draw the strength I had lost in this turmoil of emotion. Would Bob ever really feel the same after Charles had intruded on the scene?

I walked downstairs to speak to Aunt Martha again. A man's voice came from the living room.

"I don't know if I've done the right thing, but I have to speak to her. I love her, and . . ."

How I adored the sensation of watching the serious look on Bob's face change to joy as I rushed into his waiting arms.

"A June wedding will be perfect, darling," I told him breathlessly.

It is perfect! They are playing the wedding march as I come down the aisle, trailing my lovely white bridal veil. I look at Bob, and I thrill with the sureness of my love and our everlasting happiness.

COMPLETE 4 PIECE MATCHED SET OF LUGGAGE

Unbelievably Priced at ONLY $2.98

Yes, that price is correct . . . Only $2.98 for the complete 4 piece set. Not $2.98 each, but $2.98 complete for all 4 pieces. And, there is nothing else to buy . . . no extras, no additions. Its modern appearance and wide-stitched simulated leatherette material will amaze you with its good looks.

IMPORTED AND MASS PRODUCED TO MAKE THIS PRICE POSSIBLE

This tremendous bargain is possible only through the use of pressed chip-board. This wonderfully versatile material bends around three sides and is bonded by sturdy wide stitching to the overlapping closing. Snap locks and handles are rivered in place. The big one has extra metal stripping for strength and long wear. Inside has laminated modern design print. Each piece fits inside the next larger which saves your storage space and makes our shipping easier.

NOT FANCY LUGGAGE — BUT USEFUL, PRACTICAL

You will be thrilled and delighted with the many, many uses you will find for this set. It will make a marvelous gift and your thoughtfulness will be appreciated for such a long time. Lightweight. It avoids the silly situation where the luggage weighs more than the clothing carried. When this offer was first made to us by the overseas company we couldn't believe our ears, but we were delighted when we saw it just a few days ago—and you will be too. Each piece serves a specific purpose such as vanity and cosmetic case (8"), personal Valet (10"), overnight case (12") or family size (14").

Remember, the complete price for all 4 matched pieces of luggage is only $2.98. Because of its size, we are forced to ask for an additional 63c shipping charge. Note: Due to the Federal Law, there is a 10% excise tax on all purchases of luggage. This Federal tax (30c in this instance) is turned over directly by us to the Government. We merely act as agents and in no way benefit. Kindly add this 30c to your purchase price when ordering.

10 Day Free Trial

Simply fill in the coupon and when your 4 piece matching set of luggage arrives, pay the postman only $2.98 plus C.O.D., shipping charges and excise tax. Then, even use them for 10 full days, and if you are not 100% delighted then simply return them for your full purchase price refund.
